Dear MBOTMA friends and family,

For those of you who don't know (which is probably almost all of you), Full Circle Water is a division of Pristine Environmental LLC, and is owned by long-time MBOTMA member Joe Meyer (along with his brother and his cousin). Dad gets the mail, young John works in the back and, well, it's a family business in St. Joseph, MN. We manufacture industrial wastewater recycling equipment, and if you want to know more about it, we have a web page. fullcirclewater.com. It actually is pretty cool.

A few years ago, Joe and Brent Fuqua (also a long-time MBOTMA member), were at the campsite in the middle of the night, and they somehow came to the conclusion that Brent should work for Joe. And it became so. (Although, again, no one really cares.)

But the point is this: When Matt approached us (most likely at the campsite again) and asked if we'd like to buy an ad, Joe, being the affable bloke that he is, said, "sure, we'll buy an ad."

It sounded like a fine idea at the time, but zero thought was given to it. Because really, what are the odds that one of you might need industrial wastewater recycling equipment? Slim to none, right? So, in another meeting, at a campsite, we decided our ad should be focused what's important...

Have fun at the festival, and if you're going to jam, please tune your instrument.

Oh, if you see us around the campsite, take it easy on us. It's pretty obvious we could be talked into most anything.
